Scope Statement

(For ISO 9001:2015 & ISO 20121:2024)

The scope of the management system at TEDxThaltej Youth covers the complete planning, coordination, and execution of the TEDxThaltej Youth event, which is a not-for-profit, volunteer-driven initiative organized under an official TED license by Fenil Shah. The scope includes all operational processes, team activities, and stakeholder engagements involved in delivering an independently organized TEDx event that meets global quality, sustainability, and content standards.

This management system encompasses speaker curation, speech development under TEDx guidelines, volunteer training and coordination, venue planning, production management, vendor evaluation, content and experience design, and stakeholder communication. It also includes quality assurance through structured internal reviews, performance evaluations, and feedback collection from attendees, speakers, and partners.

The system further integrates sustainability principles across material sourcing, waste reduction, responsible communication, eco-friendly logistics, and the use of recyclable and reusable event components. Local sourcing is prioritized, and all suppliers and vendors are selected based on quality, transparency, and alignment with the event's sustainability policy.

The scope applies to TEDxThaltej Youth activities conducted in Ahmedabad, India, and covers all pre-event, on-ground, and post-event phases, ensuring compliance with the requirements of ISO 9001:2015 for Quality Management Systems and ISO 20121:2024 for Sustainable Event Management Systems.
